The Doors: Lizard Kings

June 1 - 30, 2023

Midnight Moment is the world's largest, longest-running video art program, synchronized nightly from 11:57pm to 12am on over 90 electronic billboards in Times Square. Currently on view is The Doors: Lizard Kings by artist Zach Blas. Every midnight in June, follow five crystal-ridged computer generated reptilian creatures as they prowl and skitter across the screens of Times Square. Exploring Silicon Valley's connections to California's 1960s counterculture movement, The Doors: Lizard Kings time travels between the psychedelic culture of the past and the trends of the present.

Digital artwork may contain flashing lights or other stimulating shapes, patterns, or images.

The Survivor Tree

A photograph of the interior of the 9/11 Museum. The image shows a large, rusted steel beam, likely a remnant of the World Trade Center's structure, displayed prominently. To the right is a large, light-colored concrete column. The background features a glass and steel structure, possibly a staircase or walkway, with people visible in the distance. The lighting is bright, coming from the glass structure above.

A group of people are standing on a glass-enclosed skybridge or walkway at Vanderbilt University. The structure is made of large glass panels that reflect the sky and the surrounding area. Several people are visible, including a man in a blue shirt and sunglasses, a man in a white shirt and sunglasses, and a woman in a blue jacket and sunglasses. The text "The Summit One Vanderbilt" is overlaid on the image in white. The background shows a clear blue sky and some distant buildings.

Walking Tour of Central Park

A photograph of the Bow Bridge in Central Park, New York City. The bridge is a white, arched stone structure with a decorative balustrade featuring circular openings. It spans a body of water, likely the Reservoir, which reflects the bridge and the surrounding lush green trees. Several people are visible walking across the bridge. The scene is set in a dense forest with vibrant green foliage.
